ceramic is identity

*design
is history*

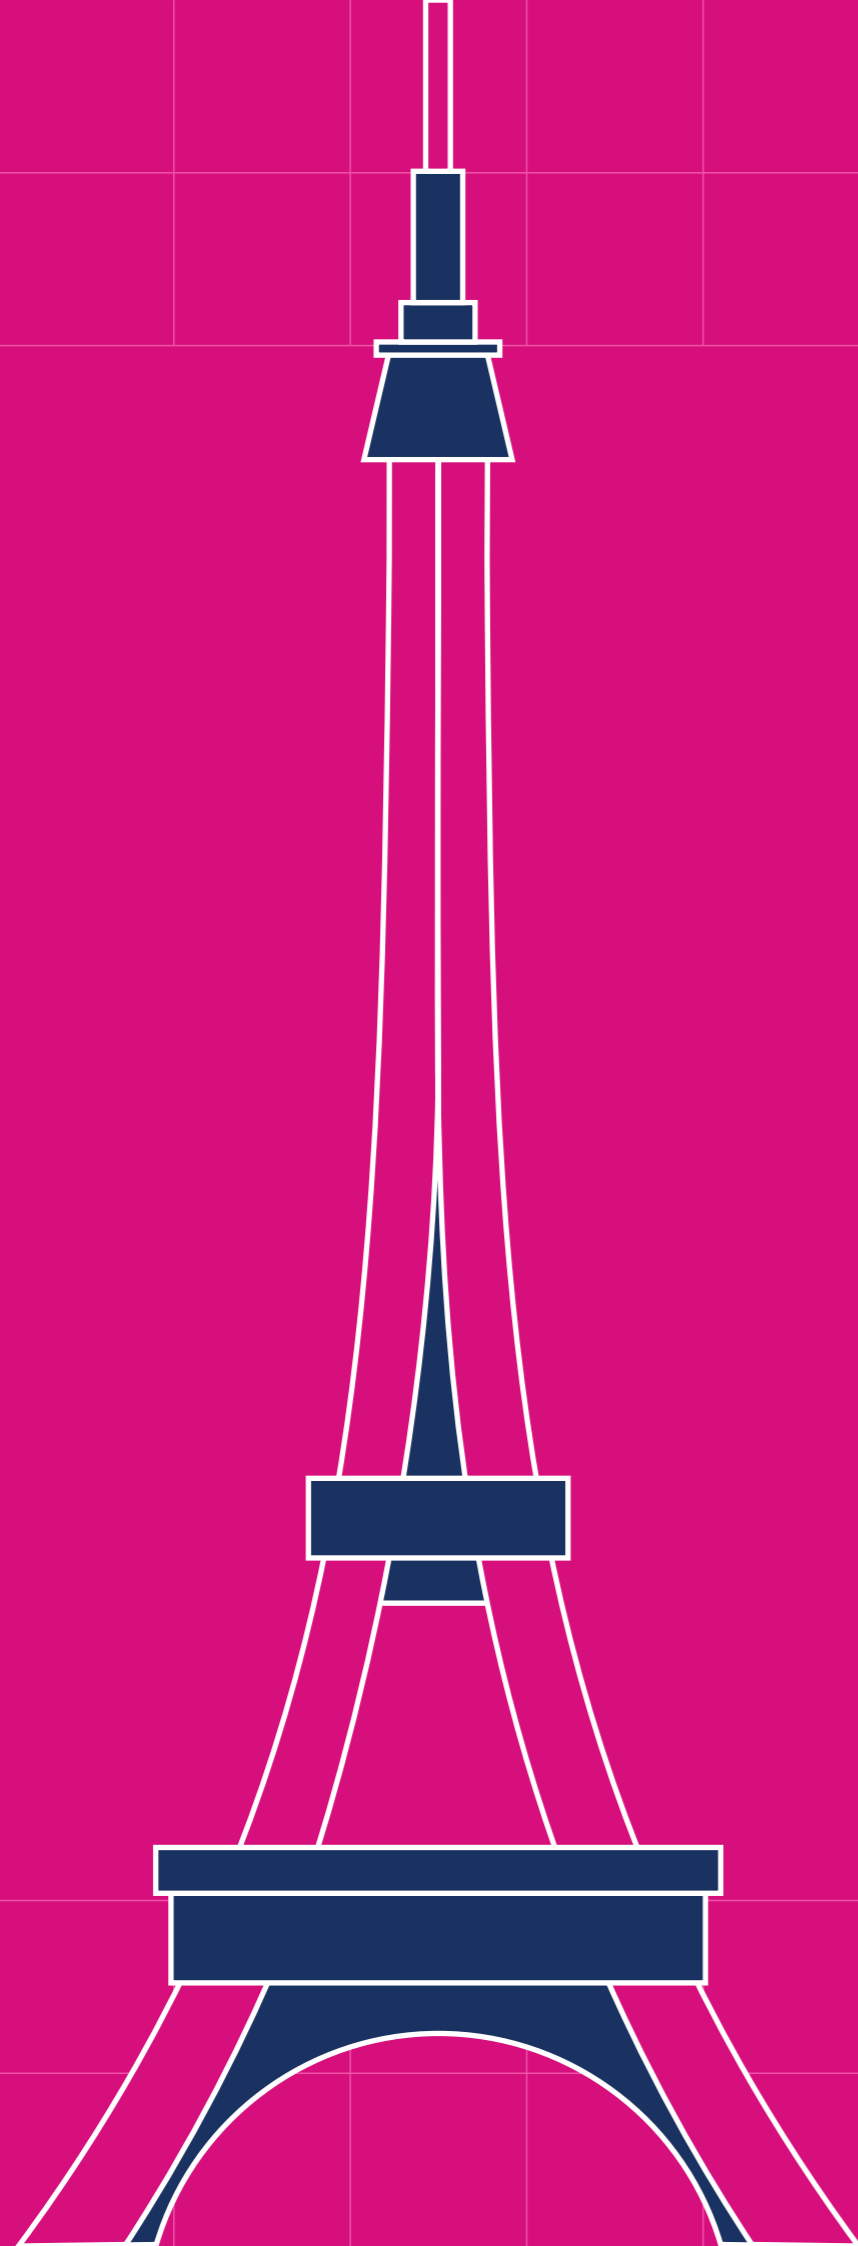

The study of the history of design is complicated by varying interpretations of what constitutes 'designing'. Originally situated within art history, the historical development of the discipline of design history coalesced in the 1970s, as interested academics worked to recognize design as a separate and legitimate target for historical research.

is memory*

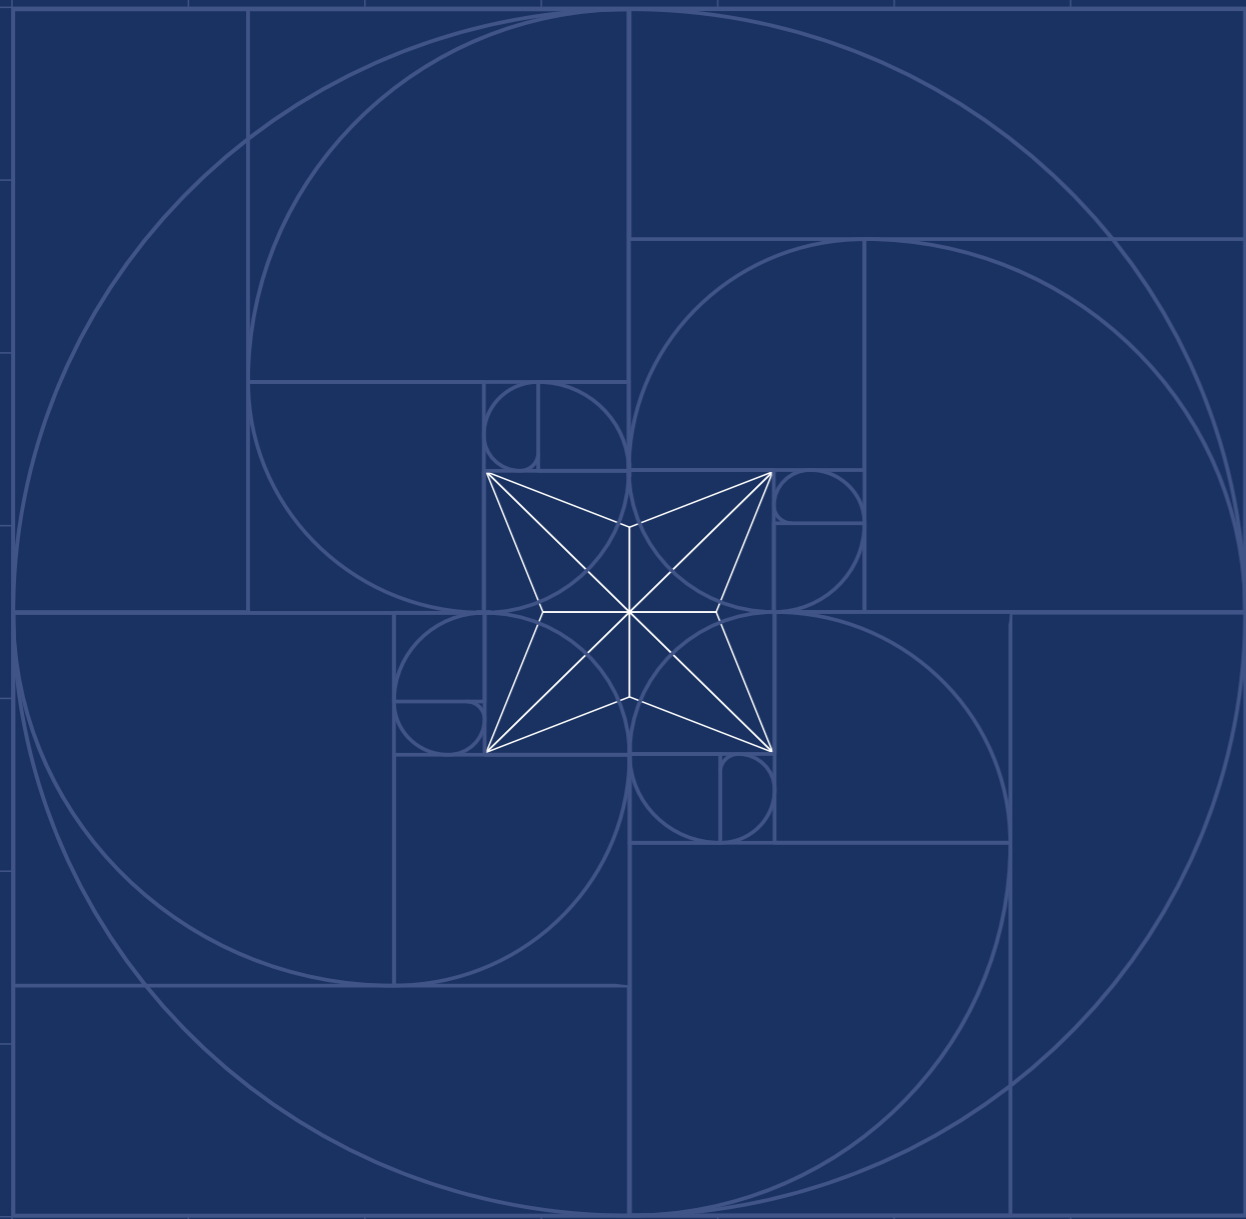

Design for us means discovering beauty in everyday life, it's the imagination that turns into the hand that shapes and transforms even the most functional objects a creative act. our series products are born with the aim of combining aesthetics with high quality technology, made in italy and always attentive to the search for innovative solutions.
